Product Debuts: Kitchen Cabinetry Collections

Antoniolupi & Ernestomeda Chicago, Suite 128

Ernestomeda 'OBLIQUA': This elegantly styled, innovative kitchen takes its name from the distinctive oblique shaping of its doors and tops. Its solid volumes and the beauty of the combinations of finishes give it modernity and appeal.

Plain & Fancy By Dandamudi's, Suite 142

Taliesan Display: Discover this new display by senior designer Brandy Cohen. Taliesan features an inset-door style with a custom finish, walnut interior drawers, and a framed-glass door with a stained-oak finish. LED lighting strips illuminate this beautiful, transitional look.

Poggenpohl, Suite 138

Poggenpohl + Stage: A place that can be equipped solely to suit personal habits, preferences and interests, which has many flexible planning and integral solutions, designed from the highest quality materials with an unmistakable design – +STAGE does it all. With this innovative concept, Poggenpohl offers the utmost in individuality and consistently embraces the changing demands on the home environment. Scavolini Store Chicago, Suite 110

The Motus project by Scavolini: The Motus project by Scavolini, designed by Vittore Nioiu, brings together function and entertainment. Marks of distinction include the asymmetric opening of the door with no handle, the unique interpretation of the glass door, the geometry of the shaped drawer, the new island and peninsula units; and the sophisticated chromatic range of the elements (gloss and matte lacquer, or melamine with matching finishes) proposed in a line dedicated to today's most popular colors.

Studio Snaidero Chicago, Suite 140

Board by Snaidero. Contemporary living trends call for compact, shared spaces that are bright and open, freely configured interiors with no functional constraints, and new levels of environmental quality. Snaidero's Board is a modern kitchen design that complies with these new aesthetic and functional requirements: a flexible and highly customizable solution that can adjust to any space.
